TEXAS GAINS 12,000 ACRES BY RESURVEY

Austin, Texas, Marca II.—Judge Sam
R. Scott of Waco, who was appointed some tinic ago by the governor as a commissioner from Texas, to establish the true boundary between Texas and New Mexico, which for many years has been a hone of contention, amounces that he has completed the work and is now formulating his report which will be presented to the governor within a short time.

Shot and seriously wounded in his office here today by a customer. Mr. Hill is a member of the brokerage firm of Richardson, Hill and company. He is vice president of the Keweenaw Central railrond company and the Keweenaw Commander over to the police. The police decided that stock market losses had unbalanced Lewinso's mind.

The bullet struck Mr. Hill in the right breast and ranged upward toward the aboutier. Mr. Hill was able to walk to the ambulance which came from the relief hospital. Austin, Texas, Marca 11.-Judge Sam

In a great measure, the judge said. the boundary remains the same. It was found that the stones and posts which marked the boundary, were removed and the following corporations:

Tuesday-Second Day of Fashion's Reception

The Seal of Public Approval Is Awarded Our Superb Exhibit of Newest Ideas For Spring

The anxious period has passed—already hundreds have viewed and praised our showing of the new siyles.

Many others will add their endorsement during the next few days of this notable event. Your opinion is invited. Come and pass judgment on these authoritative fashions so bounteously displayed.

In the entire annals of this establishment we have never entered on the new season so well prepared as at this time." Stocks are larger, better selected, superior in quality and unmistakably correct in every feature of style-and we feel that this greater preparedness is most praiseworthy.

Our ever increasing business is due in a large measure to the attention we pay to style-and this season our preeminence as the headquarters of Fashion is more pronounced than ever.

The fashionableness of our merchandise is again demonstrated by this opening-yet we have not sacrificed a whit of value in these superior new goods.

We have united inseparably the utmost of style and value at this store—as is amply evidenced by our displays of Spring goods.

The proof awaits merely upon your coming here and seeing for yourself.

s | Says He Deserves Credit for Awakening Public to Need for Action.

Need for Action.

Chicago, Ill., March 11.—President Taft have a new definition of a political "Progressives" in a speech at the banquet of the Swedish-American Republican league of Chicago, He eliminated from consideration as real progressives those who look to socialism for relief from present day evils in government, flectared that his distinguished predecessor derived most of the credit for awakening to the public the need for action, and argued that "progressive is, that progressive does," polnting periling to some of the achievements of his administration as proof that his administration has qualified under that definition.

"The term 'progressive," said the president, "includes all of those who have been moved to efforts to reform by the necessity for legislative and governmental action to dgrive corporate capital and undue vested privilege of its political power and to bring about popular and governmental control and regulation of the use of capital in legitimate avenues and for legitimate purposes.

"An administration which has been regulation of the use of capital in legitimate avenues and for legitimate purposes.

"An administration which has been successfully progressive in deed, is entitled to the approval of the people. The Republican administration in what it has accomplished in legislative and executive action is able to point to many real steps of progress, both in the way of avoiding unnecessary disturbances of business, in the way of regulating the use of corporate capital and privilege and preventing its misuse, and in the preservation for the purpose of what belongs to it, as well as in ameliorating the legal satus of classes of the people and in increasing the functions of the government for the benefit of the whole people.

"Two decades of expansion in all lines of endeavor in the United States previous to 1860," declared Mr. Taft. "were responsible for encroachments of big business' in the field of polities, and it finally became apparent that the encroachments must be stopped and legislation must be enacted that would hold in restraint corporate and vested interests." It was in this connection that he brought in a reference to Col. Housing the administration of my dis-mankind was the best, and that the more nearly the functions of the government were confined to the administration of law, the better; but under the conditions of popular government, there are many functions that can be more effectively and more economically performed than by private enterprise, and in this way the individuals among the people may derive greater benefits. The statutory provision of the legislative discharge of such functions by the government is progressive.

"We all believe in popular government. I am aware of the exposure to criticism which the suggestion that the American people may make mistakes by basity action and lack of deliberation will expose one. I am aware of the ease with which such a suggestion can be tortured into an expression of a distrust in the American people. I am aware that a body of people does not differ in certain traits from the individuals who make it up, and that people does not, any more than as individuals enjoy having their own defects pointed out to them.

"The truth is that the man who tells the people of the danger that may rise from mistaken and hasty action has a higher tribute to them thin the one who constantly fawns upon them as if they were incapable of error. The most abiding compliment that can be paid to the American people is to point to the fact that the constitution which they were incapable of error. The most abiding compliment that can be paid to the American people is to point to the fact that the constitution which they framed and have maintained they have recognized the danger of hasty action by themselves, and have, in its checks and balances, voluntarily maintained a protection against it. The truth is that in his last century we have vindicated popular government in a way that it has never before been vindicated. "Distrust of popular kovernment; the pride that I have that this is a popular government and that it has shown itself the strongest in leastory, is as deeply imbedded as any feeling that is in me, I would be the last man to exclude
